

NEW FIGURES ON STATE AID FOR SCHOOLS ARE ANNOUNCED

Twenty-one Adams county school districts will receive more reimbursement from the state for this year's school activities and 12 will receive a reduction in the amount paid to them by the state, according to the reimbursement fractions announced today by the county superintendent of schools' office.

Assistant County Superintendent Charles I. Raffensperger said he had been notified by the state today that Gettysburg's reimbursement fraction has dropped from .3473 for last year to .3338 this year. As a result the borough will receive from the state next year approximately 33 per cent of its teaching costs for its school operations this year. This year it is receiving approximately 34 per cent. Three years ago Gettysburg's reimbursement, then based on the local assessment, was .7765.

Districts in addition to Gettysburg where the reimbursement fraction was reduced include Abbotstown, Cumberland, Franklin, Germany, Latimore, Liberty, McSherrystown, Mt. Joy, New Oxford, Union and York Springs.

SAYS CHINESE FEAR NAPALMS

Chinese Reds and North Koreans fear most the napalm fire bombs dropped on them by United Nations planes, Raymond H. Bisbing, Jr., who returned this week from Korea said today.

The young parachute rigger served for 51 days in the Korean waters aboard the U.S.S. Carrier Leyte. Upon the return of the Leyte to the west coast, he was granted a leave to visit his home on Chambersburg street here.

Bisbing noted that crews aboard the aircraft carried mixed the napalm at night on the hangar deck of the carrier preparatory to placing the fire bombs on the bomb racks of the planes in the morning.

He described the constant day and night activities of the carrier pilots in flying missions over Korea and in the Inchon invasion and Hungnam evacuations in which the carrier took part.

He added that planes in Korea frequently fly so low that some have been brought down by small arms fire of the enemy.

The admiral in charge of the Korean campaign for the navy termed Bisbing's air group on the Leyte as "the best serving in the Korean war."

MORE FARMERS ARE ENROLLED IN '51 PROGRAM

The local Production and Marketing committee announced today that the number of farmers enrolled in the 1951 program has already exceeded the 1950 number by 103. A total of approximately 1,700 farmers in all will have signed this year, Martin Walter, chairman of the PMA committee, estimated, by the time the period for such applications ends.

Walter urged farmers who have not yet signed to visit the office on North Washington street as soon as possible. Delay on the part of some farmers last year put them beyond the time limit of the signing up period, Walter noted.

He also added that delay on the part of a number of farmers who had signed for lime caused a loss of 4,000 tons of lime in 1950. The farmers held off taking the lime until wet weather prohibited its use, Walter said, and as a result much lime which had been scheduled to be placed on county farms under PMA programs was not delivered.

Plan Pasture Contest

The county PMA also announced today that a pasture improvement contest will be held this summer similar to those held in previous years and urged farmers to join in the contest. Prizes will be awarded the winners, as usual, in the form of materials such as lime or fertilizer.

Increased use of the programs available under the PMA through the years was outlined by Chairman Walter today. In 1936, 2,700 tons of lime was provided for county farms under the program. In 1949 the amount was 32,143 tons. No phosphate was provided under the 1936 program. In 1949, 3,867 tons was provided. At present 2,858 acres planted in rye grass, 3,522 in other cover crops and 6,327 acres in orchard sod are under the PMA program.

Walter noted that the PMA programs are designed to stimulate use of farm management programs to conserve and build up the soil.

In Columbia, Lancaster county town of 12,000, the water works was cut off of commission, and the community had to rely upon an inadequate flow from a small reservoir. Prepare Woodwork Before Refinishing

Before refinishing old woodwork which has previously been painted, it needs to be thoroughly cleaned of all dirt, grease and wax. A strong soap and water solution—or any of the special prepared products designed for this purpose—will remove all normal dirt and grease. Wax can be removed with turpentine, mineral spirits or a special wax removing product. If woodwork is to be given a coat of color, gloss or semi-gloss enamel will probably be selected. The material with the high gloss is usually employed only in areas that require the most frequent washings.

Warriors Crush Waynesboro 53-37 For 3rd Straight Win

Holding a substantial lead from the opening whistle, the Gettysburg high cagers notched their third straight victory by disposing of Waynesboro here in a South Penn league game Friday evening 53-37.

The local junior varsity won the preliminary game 52-22. In recording their third straight double victory, both teams ran up new high point totals for the season.

As the result of the win the Warriors remain in a deadlock with Chambersburg for the second half lead. On Tuesday, Hershey, first half champs, will play here.

Cecil McCormick and Dick Harriel supplied the scoring punch which carried the locals to victory. McCormick, who is improving steadily, landed 16 points while Harriel netted 18 to be high man.

GHS Starts Fast
Gettysburg got off to a 4-0 lead in the first two minutes on a goal by McCormick and free tosses by McCormick and Guy Crist. Dinterman followed with Waynesboro's initial goal. The Warriors moved out into a 11-4 lead before Staley and Stottelmyer landed goals. Jim Skinner landed on a pivot chuck to make the score 13-8 at the quarter.

Ted Ford and Crist landed goals and McCormick a foul to send the score to 18-8 in the first two minutes of the second frame. Three straight goals by Staley, Dinterman and Shank put the visiting Tornado back in the game midway in the period. The last four minutes resulted in some wild and loosely played ball as Gettysburg held a 24-21 lead at intermission.

The opening minutes of the third quarter were nip and tuck with Gettysburg holding tenaciously to its lead. During the round Crist landed three goals and McCormick a pair. The quarter ended 38-30.

Harriel Takes Over
Harriel went on a scoring spree in the final period, looping four goals and as many fouls to hike the locals' margin. Meanwhile Stottelmyer and Greenawalt netted the only goals for Waynesboro.

Ross Sachs' reserves breezed through to its easiest triumph in the preliminary game 52-22 as the entire squad saw action. Fisel hit the cords for 22 points.

BRION LOSES TO REX LAYNE ON SPLIT DECISION

By JACK HAND

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Next for Rex Layne, the bully-boy from Lewiston, Utah, could be Roland Lasterza, Rocky Marciano, Pat Valentino, or maybe Gorgeous George?

Marv Jensen, Layne's manager held out for Lasterza, Marciano or Valentino after last night's split decision victory over Argentina's Cesar Brion.

Many of the 5,768 customers and TV kibitzers called for Gorgeous George after the boxing-wrestling exhibition at Madison Square Garden.

Seriously, though, 22-year-old Rex from Utah's sugar beet land, failed to live up to the gaudy promise of his November 24 upset over tired old Jersey Joe Walcott.

Referee for Brion

Layne won, no doubt about it in this corner, although Referee Jack Watson, a little man who had to tug and shove the big brutes all night, cast his ballot for Brion 5-4-1.

Brion and his manager thought Layne was right. Judge Frank Forbes liked Layne 7-3 and Judge Harold Barnes made it 7-2-1 for Layne. The AP card agreed with Forbes.

In his dressing room, Layne was quick to admit his disappointment over his showing.

"I felt sluggish," he said. "No alibis. I thought I won all right. But with two styles like that nobody could look good."

That was what the folks who paid $19,040 thought too. They booed after the decision and booed at the end of four rounds. Actually it wasn't Layne they booed but the close range mauling and wrestling of both boys that led to an unhappy evening for all.

Brion was three inches taller but Layne at 196½ to 194 had the pull in the weights. Too much of Rex's weight was around his middle. He tired in the late rounds with the ninth and tenth tops in futility for both.

RESENTMENTS

One reason why so many people are unhappy, not knowing why, is that they have overburdened their minds with resentments. These evil thoughts pile right on top of happier and generous ones and smother them so that they never get expression.

Resentments are a form of hate. There are those who resent the good fortune of others, or their success. They think they should have the same, not realizing that what that other one has gained has been through much sacrifice and hard work.

Nations have these resentments, as we all learn from the reading of our newspapers. And they too often have led to war. What a dearth of good will and co-operation there are among human beings and nations! What a world this would be if we all worked together, and as a popular diplomat recently expressed it—"played together!"

Resentments in the mind are like poison, and they work fast when they get into the blood. Keep them out of your mind and that mind will see good in people and emulate it as a valuable personal asset. When we are tolerant and think well of others they think well of us. Simple, isn't it? And so easy.

We all have these resentments at times but we ought to keep them in a dark corner where they will soon die out of their own inability to get into the light. It's in the light where they thrive and cause damage and heartaches. It's best, however, never to allow them to get into your mind in the first place. They are liable to squeeze out when you are least aware that they are around!

President Lincoln didn't hold resentment toward one of his Generals who snubbed him by making him wait outside his tent. He merely remarked that he would gladly hold the General's horse if he would bring the country victories! Keep these resentments out of your mind and consciousness and you will be amazed how happy a road you will be traveling.

AFTER A BLUNDER
When you have blundered and have paid the cost,
'Tis useless with self-censure to remain.

Least the next venture you attempt be lost,

PAST ACHIEVEMENT

May find unto their sorrow
No past success will count when they Must failure risk tomorrow.

Just add to lucky the letter "p"
And that will make it "plucky."
But who has "pluck" is apt to be
The one that's also lucky.

SPOT NEWS

HOW TO GET ON WITH YOUR DRY-CLEANER

(REPRINTED IN BRIEF FROM THE SEPTEMBER READERS' DIGEST)

In 1849 a French maid spilled a turpentine lamp over a linen tablecloth. To the astonishment of her employer — a tailor named Jolly Bellin—the turpentine left a patch cleaned of soil and stains; and with that discovery, so the story goes, he started the dry-cleaning industry.

First an inspector examines a garment when it comes in for tears, for trimmings that will not withstand the solvent process and must be removed and for stains that should be taken out beforehand. A worker removes the customary collection of lipsticks, matches, chewing gum, candy, razor blades, fountain pens, pencils, jewelry and small change from pockets and cleans the pockets and creases of lint, tobacco and powder. Lipsticks are the bane of the cleaning industry. They often dissolve in the solvent and spread damage through a whole batch of clothes.

Your garments then go into a washer (somewhat like your electric washer at home) that agitates them for about 20 minutes in the cleaning solution. This should remove all dirt, oil, fat, grease and tar.

Next, the load goes into a whirling extractor to remove all solvent. Warm air chambers dry the clothes and remove odors.

Now they go to the most highly skilled worker in the plant, the spotter. His job is to remove the more stubborn stains. He should be able to recognize the cause of most stains, know the chemicals that will remove them and determine in advance how each fabric will react to his chemicals. Good spotters are rare and receive the highest craftsman's pay in the industry, sometimes more than $100 a week.

Their methods are ingenious. One of their tricks is to digest certain food stains chemically with compounds that convert starch into sugar, then dissolve the sugar with water.

The bugaboo of the spotter is tannin, an acid in fruit juices, soft drinks, tea, coffee, beer and whiskey. Tannin is used in making dyes and preparing leather and is extremely difficult to get out of woollens without damaging the material. Often, tannin stains do not show up until after cleaning and pressing, so, if you've spilled anything from the tannin group on woollens, it's best to let the cleaner know. Liquor stains contain both tannin and alcohol, which sometimes damages color.

With all his chemicals, plain water is the spotter's most useful cleaning agent, especially for such common stains as perspiration.

Finally, the clothes are pressed, inspected again, then a sewing department restores trimmings and mends if necessary.

Inferior cleaners can cut corners all along the line. Most of them eliminate inspections, pre-spotting, removal of uncleanable trimmings, the cleaning of pockets and creases, and much of the wet cleaning.

At times, the manufacturer, not the cleaner, is to blame for damage. Shoddy materials or workmanship generally shows up in the cleaning; fancy buttons, made of inferior plastic often dissolve in the cleaning solvent; belts backed with paper or artificial leather disintegrate; cheap dyes run or wash out.

Customers, too, may be responsible for damage blamed on cleaners.

For instance: IRONING a stained garment may set the stain permanently. If deodorants are ironed in without washing, the acid may weaken the fabric to the point where it gives way at the cleaner's.

MOTH DAMAGE doesn't always show until after cleaning loosens weakened fibers.

DIRT tends to set in neglected materials, particularly if they have been hung in a warm closet.

DENTIFRICES may spatter unremovable spots on your dressing gown.

PERFUMES can remove color and leave dye rings, or a resinous stain that cannot be removed.

COLD-WAVE PERMANENTS, if carelessly handled can eat dye on garments they touch, although you may not know it until the heat of the cleaner's drying process brings it out.

A good cleaner will be able to tell you whether various stains can be removed, whether there is risk in trying to remove them and, with a few exceptions, how a fabric or dye is likely to react.

Examine each article when the cleaner returns it. But don't let an unscrupulous cleaner tell you that by accepting a ruined article you have lost your right to claim satisfaction. Courts have ruled otherwise.

Here are some tips that will help you get more satisfactory cleaning service:

Remove everything from pockets; turn them inside out. Remove fancy buttons and shoulder pads which sometimes shrink and harden, or even disintegrate in the cleaning process. Let your cleaner have any special cleaning instructions that may have come with the garment.

Sometimes a water repellent treatment for valuable gowns is worth while to help prevent ruinous stains. With it, you can often shake a spilled cocktail or cup of coffee right out of your lap. Some cleaners will give this treatment for a reasonable fee. You can also have draperies flame-proofed and woollens moth-proofed at many cleaners these days.

You can remove pure grease fat, wax or tar yourself, with household cleaning agents (non-inflammable for safety's sake) but, remember, a spotter never rubs a stain hard, and neither should you—you may chafe the fabric or damage the color. The fresher the stain, the easier it is to remove.

Never use anything but cold water or an ice cub to remove tannin stains.

Beware of using water on ink from ball-point pens. The stains may become permanent.

If you have tried to remove stains unsuccessfully yourself, tell the cleaner what you used.

When you've found a good cleaner, you need have little fear for the life of your finest clothes. Iowa State College experiments revealed that the cleaning process is remarkably easy on garments. In fact, a hundred cleanings will take less strength away from woolen fibers than the sharp cutting edges of unnoticed dirt.

EXPLAINS WHO USES WHICH FORM FOR TAX

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP) — You shouldn't have much trouble deciding what form to use in making your 1950 income tax return.

There are just three forms: The long form; the 1040 short form; and form 1040-A.

Form 1040, a four-page job, is called the long-form when you figure your own tax on page 4.

Form 1040, the same four-page job, is called the short form when, instead of figuring your tax, you find it in the table on page 4.

Form 1040-A is a one-sheet job on yellow paper. With this you don't have to figure your tax or use the table. You simply answer some questions and mail it to the collector. He'll figure your tax for you.

No Choice Over $5,000

But people with 1950 income of $5,000 or more have no choice. They must use the 1040 long form. They can't use any other.

The under-$5,000 people can use any one of the three forms but which you use depends upon your particular problem. Start with the simplest:

Form 1040-A. You can use it if your total 1950 income was under $5,000 and if—

1. All of it was in wages or salary from which full tax was withheld during 1950 or if—

2. You had additional non-taxed income that amounted to no more than $100 and came from wages, dividends or interest but no other source.

Some Examples Cited

For example: Your income was $4,100. Of that, $4,000 was in wages for which full tax was withheld. The other $100 was in wages, dividends or interest. You could use form 1040-A.

But if you had $101 in wages, dividends or untaxed income—in addition to your fully taxed wages or salary—you couldn't use form 1040-A. You could use the 1040 short-form.

And if you had any income at all, no matter how small, from things like rents or fees or annuities you couldn't use form 1040-A. You could use the 1040 short form.

For example: Your income was $4,025. Of that, $4,000 was in wages from which full tax was withheld. The other $25 was in fees. You could not use form 1040-A. You could use the 1040 short form.

Why Bother?

The 1040 short form. If your income was under $5,000 but of such a kind that you can't use form 1040-A, then you can use the 1040 short form. It's used mostly by those under-$5,000 people who didn't have the full tax or any tax withheld from their 1950 income.

But why should anyone, whose income was under $5,000 want to bother using the more difficult 1040 long form where he has to figure his own tax?

Anyone with under-$5,000 income, using form 1040-A or the 1040 short form, gets an automatic deduction of about 10 per cent of his income for expenses allowed by law, like hospital bills or charitable contributions.

He doesn't have to claim it. If he uses the table on the 1040 short form it is allowed for in the table.

If he uses form 1040-A, letting the collector figure the tax for him, the deduction already is allowed for in the table which the collector uses to figure the tax.

But suppose your deductible expenses actually ran to more than 10 per cent although your income was under $5,000.

Husbands And Wives

In that case you'd lose money by using form 1040-A or the 1040 short form where the most you get is around 10 per cent. Instead, use the 1040 long form.

The under-$5,000 people using the 1040 long form to claim unusually large deductions will have to itemize them but that's the only way they can claim them.

What do husbands and wives do about these three forms?

If their combined income is under $5,000, they can file a joint return on form 1040-A or the 1040 short form. (Remember: When filing a joint return the law allows husbands and wives to split their income, each claiming half, to save money.)

If the individual incomes of a husband and wife were under $5,000 but, combined, were $5,000 or more, they can file jointly on the 1040 long form where they can split their income to save money.

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
BY FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S. & E.

In spite of all improvements in motordom there seems to be no effective anti-knock gas for the back-seat driver.

Just Shy On Quality

The history of one of the cars no longer produced ought to be a tip to anyone having trouble getting started in cold weather. This particular car was a honey in many respects, but what a mule when you wanted to get going! Smart mechanics tried everything in their bag of tricks. In retrospect the fact is that this trouble was a combination of shortcomings. The coil was undersized and the battery wasn't of sufficient capacity for the particular motor. Breaker points were not of the best quality and the starter-motor was a hog for current but short on performance. So much current was consumed by the starter-motor there wasn't sufficient surplus for a good, hot spark. Some of those who battled to get to the answer managed to obtain normal starts merely by increasing quality of the electrical system's parts.

Another Starting Aid

Use of oil additives in winter helps the starting job not merely because they lubricate the engine, speed up cranking and build up more compression for the start, but also because of their effect on the valves. One reason engines so often are reluctant when the mercury dips is because a stuck valve or two robs one of the cylinders of compression. The better the valve action the quicker the engine will start, other things being equal.

Most motorists know that if a new fan belt is overtightened its life will be shortened, but not many have the additional wisdom to make sure the belt pulleys are in line.

The smaller the spark plug size the more care must be taken when screwing the plug into the motor. Over-tightening is a common cause of incorrect gapping, the outer point being moved by twisting of the shell.

Good brake fluid also serves to lubricate the brake pistons and protect their rubber parts.

Repeat By Request

There have been several requests for repeating my hint on how to tell whether the pitting of breaker points means that the condenser capacity is too much or too little. What I said originally was that if the capacity is too small the points will pit with a crater on the negative contact. Should the condenser's capacity be too large the crater will appear on the positive points. You can tell polarity by noting which side of the electrical system is grounded.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"Right now many a motorist who thought he didn't need to use such a strong solution of anti-freeze at the beginning of the season realizes his mistake. In order to protect down to lower temperatures he has not merely to add more solution, but must drain off some already in the car to make room for the stronger solution. This can be quite expensive in the case of a large cooling system and ethylene glycol anti-freeze. Best plan always is to start with a solution concentrated enough to take care of any reasonable temperature emergency."

Look To The Motor

With all this concern over clutch chatter it is natural enough to grasp at any straw that will help give relief. One thing that seems to be overlooked, if that is possible in this quest for a solution, is roughness of the engine itself. In one case where loose motor mounts were suspected it was found that the motor itself wasn't running smoothly because of an air leak in the windshield wiper housing. When the driver tried to start off the engine was idling roughly and shaking. It did not smooth out completely until it has been accelerated, and he was trying to get a smooth start during this period when roughness of the motor was tapering off.

One For The Book

Usually when it becomes necessary to increase generator output by wrestling with the voltage and current regulator the battery is low, but occasionally one is faced with need for a regulator change after the battery has been re-charged. In such cases it is necessary to switch on the headlights while making the adjustment, otherwise the generator's output can't be stepped up enough to prevent further battery trouble.

As You Like It

Not many will have an opportunity to check over the improvements in the 1951 cars, but those who are servicing these cars say that the most significant changes are correction of errors in design of the 1949 and 1950 jobs. They are mostly little things. One that comes to mind is a more accessible spot for the oil filler cup on the generator of one of the popular cars. Things are a little easier to get at. Incidentally, many a motorist who crabs about the weaknesses of cars they do not like are largely thinking of older models. I'm not saying that the new jobs are superior to some of the fine cars that still are serving the public but just want to point out that many a weakness in design is no longer a part of the picture.

Note On Grinding

The percentage of automobilists who grind their own valves these days is on the decline, but it is still a good idea to know whether Joe is doing the job in the best manner. He really should have the latest valve grinding equipment, but if he is grinding by hand he won't turn the valves all the way around as he works on them. You may have wondered why. Well, experience long since developed the fact that if the valves are completely rotated they may cause annular cuts to be made in their seats. These are hard to get out.

Brief, Perhaps Helpful

Milling down a cylinder head of one six cylinder engine .060 inch raised compression ratio from 6.50 to 1 to 7.00 to 1. . . But it increased operating temperature and caused the head to warp. . . Rusty hydraulic valve lifter parts usually means that there is leakage of water into the cooling system. . . You can have a set of overload springs installed on the rear end of cars which also have coil springs for the rear. . . These are of the leaf type and thus may seem to be for use only with conventional left springs. . . A lot of new tools are appearing on the market, one of them being for insertion of the new snake type piston rings and four others for use with one of the new torque converters.

What's Troubling You?

Q. There's an annoying skip in the motor of my car every now and again. Two shops have worked on this, so the usual things have been tried. Can you help? HFD.

A. Believe it or not, I think I can. In a case just like this with the same make and year of car it was found that the voltage regulator had developed a spasmodic short.

Q. Do snow tires affect steering?

A. Only in the sense that some sensitive drivers notice an increased tendency for the car to wander. It is probably due to the fact that on a normally dry road the car is riding on the top sections of the snow-tires' tread pattern.

Q. I have been told to wrap a screen door coil spring around each of the four brakes to check noise. Any objections? R.D., Jr.

A. This is an old idea. I wouldn't try it unless the brakes have been carefully examined and shoes readjusted. In other words, use this as a last resort. But better quality springs would be an improvement.

Q. Can a break in the inside fabric of a tire be repaired? H.F.C.

A. This often is done. It requires expert tire skill, if the finished job is to be anything you can rely upon for not too heavy use.

Q. There is no vent hole in the gas tank cap on my new car. Two mechanics who have seen it believe that a hole should be drilled as prevention of poor fuel feed. Should this be done? T. H.

A. No. The cap already has a vent which you can find if you examine it very carefully.

Q. For some reason the automatic shift on my car fails to bring in the lower high gear, the car then staying in high and the motor laboring. What should I have them look for? W.W.R.

A. This may simply be due to a defective fuse. Or there may be something wrong with the governor.

Q. I wish you would settle an argument for me. For years I have been made to understand that the speedometer head never should be lubricated and that the only part of the layout needing greasing is the cable inside the speedometer conduit. Now I am told that same lubricant of the head is needed, and that if this isn't done the speedometer may be noisy in cold weather and erratic. G.T.H.

A. The answer here is that the speedometer head bushing may need a drop or two of oil. But this is a job for someone who knows a speedometer construction. No sense damaging this delicate meter.

Littlestown FINAL SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

"Perfect Love Casteth Out Fear" was the theme of the closing preaching mission service at St. Paul's Lutheran church on Friday evening. In keeping with Universal Day of Prayer, readings on various subjects were given by women representing the different churches of the community as follows: Adoration, Mrs. Theron W. Spangler from Redeemer's Evangelical and Reformed church; Penance, Mrs. Paul E. King, Mrs. Lloyd L. Staveland and Mrs. Alvin Giffert from St. John's Lutheran church; Assurance, Mrs. William Lippy and Mrs. Edgar A. Wolfe from St. John's Lutheran church; Thanksgiving for Christ, Miss Ruth Hefz from St. Luke's Union church; White Hall; Intercession, Mrs. Orville Sents from Christ Evangelical and Reformed church; The Offering, Mrs. Chester S. Byers from Centenary Methodist church. The presentation of the offering was in charge of the pastor of the host church, the Rev. David S. Kammerer. The offering was given to the United Council of Church Women for support of missions at home and abroad. The offertory solo, "I Saw the Place" by B. V. Tippet, was sung by Robert E. DeGroft, with Mrs. Carl P. Bankert presiding at the console. The subject, "Dedication of Self" was read by Mrs. Mahlon Bucher from St. Paul's.

The text of the Rev. Dr. Clyde W. Meadows sermon was taken from Revelation 22:17. His topic was, "God's Use of the Word Whosoever." He stated: "God speaks to all men of every nation, every sort, every condition, of every age, male or female, when he says, whosoever will let him take the water of life freely." The service closed with the benediction by the Rev. Dr. Meadows.

The service was well attended, as were all of the mission services during the week. Groups in attendance on Friday evening were the Littlestown Lions club and the Alta Hummer Missionary society of St. John's Lutheran church.

The Rev. Dr. Meadows is pastor of the King Street United Brethren church in Chambersburg and was guest speaker at the mission services during the past week. He was well received at all of his sermons. These services are held annually and are sponsored by the Littlestown Ministerium.

Firemen To Meet
The monthly meeting of the Alpha Fire Company Auxiliary will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the engine house. The refreshment and entertainment committee is composed of Mrs. Edna Koontz, Mrs. Mildred Wherley, Mrs. Velma Eppelman and Mrs. Elsie McCall.

Kingsdale Volunteer Fire Company auxiliary will hold its monthly meeting on Monday evening at the engine house. Mrs. William Lippy, auxiliary president, has announced that P. L. Strahan, field representative of the Kutztown Textile Mills, will be present at 7:30 o'clock prior to the regular meeting to explain the group club plan sponsored by the mills. He will have for display rugs of various sizes. The rugs are for sale on the mill-to-consumer basis. Anyone interested is invited to attend the demonstration. The regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held at 8 o'clock. An interesting program has been planned by Mrs. Paul E. King, Miss Marie Palmer, Mrs. Curvin Mummert and Mrs. Arthur Mummert.

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)— A key Republican member of the House Ways and Means committee dared President Truman Friday to present his whole $15,500,000,000 new tax program in one bite.

That was the answer of Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) to the President's own dare to Congress to try to cut his $71,600,000,000 budget for the next fiscal year which begins July 1. At his news conference yesterday, Mr. Truman described his financial program for the nation as a good budget and a tight one.

There are only two seniors on the 1950-51 edition of the Duke University basketball team.

MOTHER OF 147 CLAIMS RECORD

A collie dog owned by Mrs. Mervin Bishop, near Natural Dam, has set what is believed to be a record for large families.

The 12-year-old dog recently gave birth to three puppies, bringing the total number she has had to 147. Most of these have lived.

The largest litter was 11, and the smallest, three. Of the last litter, three pups, born Tuesday, one has since died.

"Fussy," as the Bishops named their dog, came to them via the adoption route. The dog's mother, Belle, was owned by Mrs. Daisy Spriggs, a neighbor. The pup was found in a field, where it had wandered, by Robert Bishop, then 14 years old, in the spring of 1939.

Robert brought the puppy home, and pleaded with his parents to allow him to keep it. They learned that it was one of a litter belonging to Mrs. Spriggs, but the latter allowed them to keep the puppy.

"Fussy" is not only a good watchdog, but good at driving cattle and even hogs, according to Mrs. Bishop, and most of her offspring have inherited these traits. Of the puppies which lived, almost all were sold.

"Fussy" has a long, rich coat of black, tan and white. She is part collie and part shepherd. Several times she has been bred to thoroughbred male dogs.

RE-FILE LICENSES
The county clerk of courts, Mrs. Emma Sheffer, today began a project of re-filing all marriage returns in proper order since the first license was issued here on October 2, 1885. The first license was issued by the then clerk of courts, Clever W. Stoner, to J. Ott Patterson, a huckster, and Clara V. Kuhns. The couple was wed at New Chester by the Rev. H. C. Shindle on October 4, 1885. Prior to that time no licenses to wed were needed.

Athletic teams visiting the University of Wyoming must wear dark jerseys. Wyoming wears white jerseys with gold numerals at home.

Bill Jeffrey, a native Scot who came to this country to get away from soccer, is now in his 25th year as Penn State soccer coach.

York Springs

York Springs—Two-weeks Evangelistic services at the local Church of God, of which the Rev. Donald G. Roemer is pastor, were concluded Sunday evening with a service at which special music was rendered by the Gospel Messengers, a group from Lemoyne. A member of visiting clergymen and musicians assisted with the services during the two weeks.

A vote was taken at the last meeting of the organization as to whether needed apparatus should not be purchased before war restrictions make purchasing more difficult. The vote was in the affirmative.

FORD LEADING IN TEXAS OPEN

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 10 (AP)—Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., a moderate money-winner on the winter golf trail, led the $10,000 Texas open into its third round today.

The handsome young pro, with 133 for 36 holes, held a one-stroke margin as the field, cut to 96 yesterday in the most tumultuous round of Texas open history, moved into the elimination that will lop some 30 more from the list for tomorrow's last 13.

Doughty Doug, winner of $1,288.34 this year but never a first-money grabber to date, vaulted to the top with a five-under-par 66 over 6,400-yard, tree-lined, dusty Brackenridge Park course. His was just one of 78 par-breaking performances — the most for one day in the annals of the ancient Texas open.

The greatest par-cracking came at Brackenridge where the top men of the tour played but there were some at the Fort Sam Houston Country club course, which stretches 6,426 yards and has 71 regulation figures.

Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., an old campaigner who hasn't been doing so well this year, and Glenn Teal of Jacksonville, Fla., a semi-veteran and who, like Palmer, isn't among the top 25 money-winners, each whipped up a grand 63. It was just a stroke over the Brackenridge competitive course record set in 1947 by Jimmie Demaret of Ojai, Calif. It shot Palmer and Teal into a tie for second place at 134.

PLAN TO DRAFT 18-YEAR-OLDS IS ADVANCING

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Defense Department proposal for drafting 18-year-olds appears certain to reach the Senate floor. It was included in a bill approved last night by a 7 to 1 vote of the Senate preparedness subcommittee.

Although the measure still must clear the Senate armed services committee, that step seemed certain since the seven senators who voted for it in the subcommittee form a majority in the 13-man armed services group.

The subcommittee added several restrictions and modifications to the broad plan urged by Secretary of Defense Marshall to build up the nation's fighting manpower and provide a long-term reserve.

Stiff Opposition
Young men of 18 have never been drafted in peacetime. And stiff opposition to the plan has developed in both the Senate and House, because of many protests, especially from parents and educators.

The House armed services committee is working on a similar measure with public hearings suspended for the time being.

Senator Morse (R-Ore.), who voted against the subcommittee bill, issued a statement indicating he will continue to fight for some further changes.

One provision the group inserted in the measure would authorize army enlistment during the next five years of up to 125,000 carefully selected aliens.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) told reporters this move was not intended as "any substitute" for drafting 18-year-olds. "It is in addition to other features for building up our forces," Johnson said.

Major Provisions

Major provisions approved by the Senate group would:

1. Lower the present minimum draft age from 19 years to 18 but require local draft boards first to call up all available men in their present manpower pools of 19 through 25 years. This would affect thousands of childless married men who are not veterans.
2. Extend present required service of 21 months to 24 months exclusive of leave. With leave, this amounts to 26 months and one week. The Pentagon had asked for a minimum of 27 months.
3. Establish a universal military training and service program on a permanent basis to succeed the present Selective Service Act which is due to expire July 9.

In calling up 18-year-olds, those nearest 19 would be drafted first, followed by those 18 years and six months old, then 18 and three months and finally those just turned 18.

Provision would be made for de-

HOOVER WARNS AGAINST LAND WAR WITH REDS

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover's warning against a land war with Russia brought divided congressional reaction in Washington today and the possibility he may be invited to hearings on the troops-to-Europe issue.

Declaring that air and sea might are America's best weapons against aggression, the 76-year-old Hoover said in a radio address last night that land war against Russia would risk "the loss of all civilization."

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees begin public hearings next Thursday on the bill to permit sending American troops to Europe.

A Republican member of the committee, who asked not to be identified, said he thought the point of view that Hoover has expressed "certainly should be presented."

Democrats termed impractical Hoover's proposal that the country depend on air and sea might. Most Republicans who expressed an opinion agreed with Hoover on the losses to be suffered from a land war with Russia.

Hoover, who said after his speech he had not heard of an invitation to testify at the hearings, urged a period of watchful waiting for evidence of Europe's unity and military strength before sending more troops there.

Should Let Chiang Help

The former Republican president said that instead of committing land armies abroad, the U.S. should build "overwhelming air and naval power" for use against Russia if she attacks Europe.

"A land offensive against the Communists," he said, "could bring no military victory, no political conclusion." It could bring catastrophe to America, he added, "with no salvation to Europe."

In his second major foreign policy speech in recent weeks, Hoover urged emphasis on production of planes, ships and munitions and sending of supplies to nations "doing their utmost to defend themselves."

He proposed that Chiang Kai-shek be freed "to do what he wishes to China" and that the U.S. "furnish him with munitions."

No Repudiations

His address, carried nationally over the Mutual Broadcasting System network, seemed to modify somewhat his widely debated "Gibraltar" speech of six weeks ago.

But the 76-year-old Hoover in no way repudiated his basic thesis that America should strengthen itself, and its ocean perimeters, as the safest means of averting disaster.

He said, however, that "we should be prepared to make heavy sacrifices" to help free nations. "But we should do it with common sense, within our strength, with a long view of history in mind."

Declaring that the nation cannot sustain for long a budget of $71.6 billions and the tax load it demands, he urged reduction of national spending "to a level we can carry over a long term of years."

The Korean Lesson

"The economic destruction of the U.S. is one of the means by which Stalin hopes to overcome us," he said.

He declared it was an "unbearable strain on our economic system" to try simultaneously to maintain armies in the Pacific, build an air and naval forces, arm free nations and send land armies to Europe.

"The whole Korean tragedy is developing proof that the way to punish aggressors is from the air and sea and not by land armies," he said.

Opposing the creation of land armies for expeditions "into the quicksands of either Europe or China," Hoover said that Stalin's "greatest hope is to get us into a land war." Instead of great armies, he maintained that air and naval power, "if large enough, is Europe's real protection."

"If the Europeans are attacked," he said, "we should be prepared and use such overwhelming air and naval power to the limit and keep it up until they (the Russians) have had enough."

He said America's air threat "has been during four years the most powerful deterrent to any attack on western Europe."

RADIO

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The great debate on foreign policy continues over the week-end on radio and TV with at least three specials planned. As now scheduled, the two speakers are:

Sen. Ernest W. McFarland, of Arizona, Democratic majority leader, to be heard on ABC as he addresses a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner at Raleigh, N. C. His announced theme is "Where America Stands Today."

Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, Republican Senate leader, scheduled for MBS from a Lincoln Day dinner in Chicago of the Illinois Republican State Central committee and young Republicans.

In television, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, returns Sunday to Meet the Press, the 4 p.m. question and answer series on NBC-TV. In the interview in October he said his choice for the presidential nomination was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eddie Duchin, Piano Specialist, Dies At 41

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Eddie Duchin, whose mastery of the piano keyboard delighted millions of Americans, died here last night only a few hours after the navy cited him for his World War II combat record.

Rear Admiral Walter S. Delany, commandant of the 3rd Naval District, delivered the citation personally yesterday to Duchin, 41, who was a patient at Memorial hospital.

Duchin enlisted in the navy eight years ago. He served on destroyers in some of the toughest engagements of both the Atlantic and Pacific. In 1945 he was discharged as a lieutenant commander.

His losing battle against leukemia—a form of cancer of the blood—started several months ago. The hospital said he had been a frequent patient recently. At his bedside when he died was his wife and a sister.

At a joint hearing in New York, held by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the New Jersey Public Service Commission (PUC), Deputy State Attorney General Benjamin C. Van Tine charged the railroad with using "slipshod methods x x x in taking care of the safety of the people."

THE NATIONAL GAS SHORTAGE

What We Are Doing About It In Your Community And How You Can Help

The whole country has been experiencing an almost unprecedented cold wave. Gas wells, even in Texas, have frozen and became unworkable. Millions of people have suffered.

The Columbia gas system and your gas company are doing everything possible to get more gas to you. As soon as we can squeeze another cubic foot out of our pipes, you'll get it.

Every man in the gas industry is working with every means in his power to bring more gas to you.

Gas for industrial and commercial purposes has been drastically curtailed in order to provide the utmost gas for you.

In the meantime, here's how you can help.

1. Shut off heat in and close every possible spare room.
2. Keep room temperatures at a very minimum.
3. Postpone any washing, laundering or ironing requiring the use of gas.
4. Use cooking ranges as little as possible — not for room-heating purposes.

What Caused This Gas Shortage In Your Area?

1. Average temperatures are running 8 to 10 degrees below normal.
2. Over 12 billion cubic feet of gas expected from suppliers in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma were not received due to unavoidably delayed construction of pipelines from those areas.
3. The war in Korea caused industrial requirements alone to run at over 50,000,000 cubic feet per day more than expected.
4. Therefore, our gas stored underground is over 30 billion cubic feet less than needed.
5. Because of the railroad strike we have been unable to replenish immediately our supplies of propane gas, used for just such emergencies. These are now near exhaustion.

These are the conditions, all beyond our control, which have caused your local gas shortage.
